John Marshall: Patriot, Statesman, Chief Justice to Open at the National Constitution Center in May

Philadelphia, PA (March 27, 2017) – The National Constitution Center (NCC) and the John Marshall Foundation (JMF) are proud to announce their partnership in developing and presenting John Marshall: Patriot, Statesman, Chief Justice, a new exhibit premiering May 25, 2017, at the NCC in Philadelphia and running through December 2017.

Curated by Kevin Walsh, University of Richmond Law Professor and John Marshall Foundation Board Member, and created by the exhibitions team at the NCC, the featured artifacts and accompanying narrative reveal the lesser-known Marshall in addition to Chief Justice Marshall, whose lasting impact continues to guide our nation. The exhibit presents Marshall as a soldier in Washington's Continental Army, as the fair-minded statesman elected to Congress, as secretary of state appointed by John Adams, and as the devoted husband to Polly. It tells the story of a man, who came of age alongside the young nation he served, as well as the story of a Founder, who helped established the federal judiciary as a co-equal branch of government and who presided over the Supreme Court's first exercise of judicial review to hold a federal law unconstitutional.

Lead sponsors for the exhibit are: Bank of America, Cozen O'Connor, Pepper Hamilton LLP, and Philadelphia Contributionship. Additional sponsors are: The John Marshall Foundation, Pennsylvania Bar Association and Pennsylvania Supreme Court's Commission on Judicial Independence. The National Constitution Center and the John Marshall Foundation are grateful for these sponsorships.
